

Concept Question 9-6: What does the frequency sampling design procedure do?

It selects the coefficients of an FIR filter so that its frequency response matches exactly the desired response at a set of frequencies.